Key Qualifications

- ✚ AKINLEYE Simeon Oludiran had B.Sc. (Hons) in Agriculture; M.Sc. and PhD degrees in Agricultural Economics with specialisation in Environmental and Natural Resource Economics. He has over nine years of experience in academic, research and allied fields. He has broad range of experience in agricultural production systems, rural economy and food and nutrition management in Sub-Saharan Africa. He has written peer reviewed journal articles and book chapters on this subject. He has presented learned papers in local, regional and international conferences
- ✚ Education: His Ph.D. thesis was on the Characteristics and Determinants of Household Food Demand in Nigeria. The research degree has spawned many sub-researches and publications
- ✚ University experience: Dr Akinleye joined the services of the University of Lagos in September 2008 from the Olabisi Onabanjo University (OOU) (formerly called Ogun State University) in Nigeria as a Senior Lecturer. He has taught various sets of graduate and undergraduate students
- ✚ Administrative Experience: In the little time he has spent in the University of Lagos, he has been instrumental in efforts to rejuvenate the Departmental Journal; begin the process of floating a study option in Environmental and Resource Economics; oversee the review of the curriculum and reinvigorate the graduate programmes in the Department. He is currently the Chairman of the PG Programmes in the Department. He has also stood in for the Head of Department on a number of occasions. This is in addition to the myriad other posts and responsibilities he has since held within the University of Lagos system
- ✚ Developing Country Experience: He has experience in developing countries and has broad experience and training in agricultural and food policy and rural finance systems. His work on development issues on the African continent has been in conjunction with noteworthy international institutions and organisations such as the USAID, IITA, CODESRIA, AERC and IFPRI
- ✚ Research and Publications: Dr Akinleye has done intensive research on a broad range of issues. These have ranged from researches on food and nutrition policy, project analyses and evaluation, resource and environmental economics and marketing and consumer economics. These researches have been sent to editors of local and international publications for review and the many publications that have come out of these effort bear witness to the sterling quality and abiding standard of the birthing researches
